RESIGNS AS HEAD OF THE HOSPITAL

Miss Elizabeth Thomas to Quit as Superintendent September 1.

ACCEPTED WITH REGRETS

Came Here After Long Experience in Nursing. Wins Praise From President Bigham.

After a service of ten months as superintendent of the Warner Hospital here, Miss Elizabeth Thomas tendered her resignation at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, Friday evening. The resignation was accepted with regrets by the board. Her health was given by Miss Thomas for her resignation, which becomes effective September 1.

In speaking of her resignation this morning, Miss Thomas said she intended taking a vacation during the month of September and that she would return to her profession on October 1. At the present time, she would not divulge the whereabouts of her new position.

Miss Thomas began her duties at the local institution on September 10, 1921, and has just rounded out ten months of service.

Resigning from her position as head nurse at the Cooper Hospital, at Camden, New Jersey, Miss Thomas entered the hospital service of the United States army. She served eighteen months in France with Base Hospital Unit, number 5.

Upon her return from France, she remained in the United States hospital service until January 1919. While in the service on this side, she nursed in government hospitals at Hampton Roads, Virginia, and Fort Lyon, Colorado.

"Miss Thomas has been a competent superintendent," declared S. G. Bigham, Biglerville, president of the Board of Directors, in speaking of the resignation which he read to the members at Friday evening's meeting, "and the board accepted her resignation with regrets."

Among the other items of routine business transacted at the directors' meeting, was the reading of the monthly report of Miss Thomas. The report, however, was not made public.

Directors present at the meeting Friday evening were President S. G. Bigham, E. M. Bender, C. A. Greist, M. F. Stoner, H. T. Weaver, M. E. Knouse, George W. Baker, J. H. Holtzworth, W. A. McClean, J. D. Keith, D. C. Asper and Frank Waybright.

LOCAL CONCERN CAUGHT IN TRAP

Harrisburg-Gettysburg Transportation Company Accused of Exceeding Speed Limit.

NINETY MAKE DONATIONS

Reported Trap is Again in Operation. Markers in Town Are Questioned. Law Demands Signs at Intervals.

One of the outfits that was caught in the speed-trap operated by Squire Gross, in Dillsburg, on July 2 and 4 was the large bus operated by the Harrisburg-Gettysburg Transportation Company. This company, it is said, was notified by Gross that the bus was operating "in excess of thirty miles an hour." The company felt highly flattered, it is declared, although the driver insisted that his speed was far less than thirty miles. However, it is said, the company is going to pay without protest, inasmuch as an appeal would eat up much more than $12.50.

In this connection, it is pointed out, that when the company in question was applying for a certificate of public convenience, Squire Gross appeared before the Public Service Commission to oppose the issuance of the certificate. He was asked why he protested.

"Well," he is reported to have said, "perhaps some day some one in Dillsburg may want to operate a bus to Harrisburg, and in that case the certificate given this concern will interfere."

"Do you know of any person who has such a proposition in mind?" he was asked.

"No," replied the Squire.

"Well," said the Public Service Commission, "when perhaps some day some one in Dillsburg may want to operate a bus to Harrisburg, as you suggest, then you come back to this Commission and tell us about it."

Up to this time Gross has said nothing more. It is a coincidence that he caught one of the concern's buses in his trap.

While the ninety-one men and women he caught in his speed trap July 2 and 4 are quietly sending him their donations of $12.50, Squire Gross, of Dillsburg, and his assistants, are getting ready to work the trap today and Sunday, according to advices from Dillsburg Friday morning. As a result of their slight efforts on two days of last week, Gross and his constable split $227.50—not a bad showing for two days' work with the eyes, say the ninety-one men and women who are paying fines rather than fuss with the courts.

WARNINGS ARE ISSUED

Borough Now Has Clean Bill Of Health.

At a recent meeting of the Gettysburg Board of Health, the matter of a few persons here breaking quarantine was discussed at length and it was decided to issue warning, that the first occurrence of this kind, in the future, will bring prosecution. The penalty for this offense is severe and carries with it a fine of $50, it is said. It was also reported at the meeting, that some residents of the borough are keeping hogs without the necessary permit and that prosecution may follow.

The co-operation of the residents of town is also desired in fighting mosquitoes. It has been pointed out that if people would mow weeds on the vacant lots in the borough, it would materially help in regulating this pest.

The report of Health Officer Eric Deardorff shows that at the present time not one case of contagious disease exists in the town.

DISTILLERY ROBBED

(By Associated Press)

York, Pa., July 15—According to reports made to police headquarters by George A. Strine, internal revenue warehouseman at Foust's Distillery at Glen Rock, near here, the distillery was robbed early today of 181 barrels of bonded whiskey. Strine said he was held up by masked men, heavily armed. The whiskey was carried away in trucks in the direction of Baltimore.

More than fifty armed men, with sawed off shot guns, were in the party. Strine and Joseph Henry, of Philadelphia, the other guard, were armed with guns. The whiskey, valued at $181,000, was carried away in 16 trucks.

This was the third time in two weeks that trucks have armed men have visited the plant and each time were driven away. The two guards last night did not resist, after the men had threatened to blow up the building. They opened the office door and left the raiders in. They were then disarmed.

FOREST CAMPS LURE TOURISTS

State Has Provided Eight Camp Sites With Conveniences For Use of Public.

NO COST IS ENTAILED

Camping Has Become Quite Popular With Many Automobile Tourists. Reduces Expenses of Long Journey.

Since the automobile has come into common use, camping has become a greater joy than ever before and judging by the number of tourists who pass through Gettysburg with camping outfits strapped to the sides of their machines, this mode of living is indulged in by all classes of people. Almost any day this summer, large, as well as small cars may be seen on the streets of town, weighed down with one or more tents and other camping paraphernalia.

Already the Forestry Department has made provision for those who wish to camp by the roadside, and eight public camp grounds have been equipped with space for tents, fireplace, a supply of pure water, two comfort stations, four garbage containers, four tables and eight benches. Public telephones have also been installed in some of these camps. The camps are located along the State highways, one of which is at Caledonia Park, but a few miles from Gettysburg.

These grounds are not restricted for the exclusive use of automobile tourists, however, but can be enjoyed by small camping parties, hikers and sportsmen. For the exclusive use of the sportsmen and hikers, four other camps in state forests have been constructed along the State's secondary highways. These small camps are equipped with the conveniences of the larger camps, and a small lean-to or open front shelter is also provided.

The camps are free, but under the jurisdiction of the state forestry department, which makes no rules except that the camper extinguish all fires, and clean up the camp so that it shall be left as neat as found.

Should the camper intend to use the camp over night, or for more than one day, he should consult the district forester, to be certain that he will not be intruding upon the occupancy of a group of other tourists. Permits must be secured from these foresters if the camp is to be used for more than two days, and no party is permitted to use (Continued on Third Page)

CANNOT DETERMINE IDENTITY

Murdered Woman Now Believed to be Bella Lemons.

(By Associated Press) Baltimore, July 15.—Having eliminated Carmelia Sairoca, of Fairmont, West Virginia, as the murdered woman whose body was found near the Rolling Road Golf Club, at Catonsville, last Thursday, on notification to the Fairmont police that she was located at Arkon, Ohio, last night, the Baltimore police today turned to other clues.

The most promising of the new clues pointed to the identification of the murdered woman as Bella Lemons, also of Fairmont, West Virginia. She was reported to have left Fairmont last Tuesday for Baltimore. James M. Prop, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, after viewing the body at the morgue declared that it was Bella Lemons, but half an hour later at the police station, said that he may have been mistaken.

Mrs. G. C. Lyon, of Baltimore, also declared it was Bella Lemons, after looking at the body intently. She said they were school mates when they were younger and she was confident it was the same girl. Mrs. Lyons said the girl's father was David Lemons and that he lived at Fairmont.

PRESIDENT MAY DRAFT WORKERS

Men Would Not Strike Unless Coerced, Says Head of Maintenance of Way Brotherhood.

DRASTIC ACTION FOLLOWS

If Occasion Arises President is Determined to Use Force. Believes he Has Right to Draft Workers into Service.

Washington, July 15—President Harding, it was said yesterday at the White House, is of the opinion that in an emergency it would not abridge the liberty of any railroad worker to draft him into service in the event the Government saw fit to take over the operation of the carriers. It was stated, however, that the Executive believed the railroad situation would not become so serious that any such step would be deemed necessary by the Administration.

Secretary of War Weeks announced on leaving the White House yesterday that he had ordered the inspector general of the Eighth Corps area to proceed from San Antonio, Texas, to Denison, Texas, and report on conditions which have interrupted operation of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad. Further appeal has been received from the United States Court receiver now operating the line for assistance, together with a petition from the Dallas, Texas, Chamber of Commerce, the Secretary said.

Mr. Weeks said that he had been advised through the Associated Press that the Governor of Texas had ordered an officer of Texas Rangers to Denison, and that the Army representative would go into the situation at the same time. He declined to say definitely that appeals had been received from other places for troop intervention, but remarked that it was reported that a considerable number of locomotives were out of operation at various points.

The Government still considers that the Railroad Labor Board is its chief agency for dealing with the strike at the moment, Secretary Weeks said, adding that there is reason to hope that the board may bring about a settlement. It was indicated that efforts are continuously proceeding by which the strike might end, and the movement of troops be made unnecessary.

Postmaster General Work was understood to have informed the President that the bulk of all mail matter was being moved, although there was some delay at various points.

Postoffice Inspector Dawkins, at Dallas, Texas, telegraphed the Postmaster General yesterday that Superintendent Gaines of the Railway Mail Service at that point had been advised by officials of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad, that the situation at Denison, Texas, was "very critical and all train service, including mail trains on all system lines in Texas, must be discontinued within three days if protection is not given at once, so that equipment can be kept in repair."

Texas and Pacific Railroad officials, Inspector Dawkins said, had reported to his office that feeling was very tense and there was some violence and much intimidation on the part of strikers at Texarkana, Marshall and Fort Worth, Texas.

L. E. Faulkner, general manager of the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, advised Postmaster General Work in a lengthy telegram from Hattiesburg, Mississippi, that "a mob of between 400 and 500 men, many of whom were former employees, by threats and intimidation, forced guards to leave town early Tuesday." Mr. Faulkner stated that the officials of his road had asked the Governor of the State for protection, but had received no assurance of any State protection.

"We have exhausted every means possible in an effort to secure protection for our property," Mr. Faulkner told the Postmaster General.

AVOID STRIKE TROUBLE

Negroes at Brunswick Parade in Ku Klux Klan Regalia.

Frederick, Md., July 15—Negroes employed in the Baltimore and Ohio yard at Brunswick Thursday night turned a demonstration of white masked men into a burlesque by donning sheets from their bunks and mingling with the crowd during strike disorders, it was reported here yesterday.

The trouble was said to have started when a negro employed in the yards, where between 800 and 1,000 members of the shop crafts are on strike, was alleged to have made boasts about what he would do should he be molested. A number of men started for the negro non-union workers' camp, it was related, but were intercepted by the Sheriff and persuaded to obey the law.

Meanwhile a number of men, dressed in the regalia similar to that worn by members of the Ku Klux Klan, appeared wrapped in sheets, in ghost fashion, and then joined the hooded demonstrators.

Fifty Negroes Paid Off And Sent East by Baltimore And Ohio Railroad.

Cumberland, Md., July 15—About 50 negroes, most of them from Washington, D. C., brought here to work in the Baltimore and Ohio shops, and who quit shortly after their arrival, were led and followed from the police station to the Second National Bank by officers early Thursday afternoon, and after their checks were cashed they were placed on a special car to be returned East. The unusual parade through the streets attracted much attention.

C. P. Gulick, secretary of the picket committee of the shop crafts strikers, who caused the arrest of A. E. Zepp, J. C. Tonry, E. V. O'Donnell and J. C. Kuhn, Baltimore and Ohio patrolmen, charged with carrying concealed weapons, their discharge following because they showed commissions from the Governor as special officers, secured warrants for their re-arrest before Magistrate Humbird, claiming they have no right to carry arms outside of the railroad property. They will be given a hearing later. The strikers complain about special officers being appointed when they claim everything is orderly and conditions do not warrant it. They say they will protest to Governor Ritchie.

The Baltimore and Ohio has given notice of the annulment of two local trains—No. 53, leaving here at 2.35 A. M. for Wheeling, and No. 56, arriving at 6.05 P. M. from Wheeling. Shortage of coal is said to have prompted the decision.

It required three hours for William F. Wilhelm, Baltimore, paymaster, and corps of assistants to pay off the strikers here for work done the latter half of June and three hours on July 1. About $125,000 was distributed to these men and $225,000 to employees not on strike. The pay included overtime from July 1 to August 15, 1921, granted by the Labor Board decision No. 222. Many of the strikers rode for their pay in their own automobiles.

CYCLE RIDER FATALLY HURT

Handle Bars of Motorcycle Drop Off And Machine Runs Into Pole.

Hurled to the curb with terrific force when the handle bars of the motorcycle which he was operating became loosened in some unknown manner and flew off, Howard Hartsough, of Morrisville, Pennsylvania, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartsough, York, sustained injuries which resulted in his death in a Trenton hospital at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was injured internally in addition to a frightful fracture of the right leg.

Hartsough was employed as a motorcycle officer by citizens of the borough of Morrisville, directly across the Delaware river from Trenton. Early Tuesday morning he learned that "Cannon Ball" Baker, who is endeavoring to cross the continent in five days on a motorcycle, had just left Trenton and was on his way to Morrisville. He hurried across the river and met Baker at a point about half-way between the two states, with intentions of escorting him through Morrisville.

Coming westward, on hitting the borough, "Cannon Ball" speeded up, so as not to waste any time. Hartsough followed example and the pair were traveling through the town at a high rate of speed. Suddenly the handle bars of the motorcycle came off, and the cycle dashed directly into a telegraph pole. Hartsough, with a terrified cry, was dashed to the curb some feet distant, with great force.

MAN SHOT AT CARBONDALE

(By Associated Press)

Seranton, Pa., July 15—One man was shot and slightly injured in connection with the shopmen's strike at Carbondale, 16 miles north of here today. He is Joseph Walker, who was on his way home when fired upon by strikebreakers located in a foundry of the Delaware and Hudson railroad company. The police claim 14 shots were fired at Walker and eight other young men.

An hour later, a crowd gathered in an attempt to break in the State armory to get guns. One door had been forced open when police arrived and dispersed the crowd.

CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT

HAS AUTHORITY TO OPERATE MINES

President Believes His Power Sufficient to Take Over Mines When Emergency Arises.

OPERATORS IN DOUBT

Union Heads Are Preparing to Report Adversely on President's Plan. Association Fears Surrender to Miners.

Washington, July 15—President Harding believes that he has power as Chief Executive of the United States to operate coal mines in an emergency, it was said yesterday at the White House. There was no statement, however, as to whether the Executive considers the present such an emergency, but the existence of power in the Government for the purpose has been definitely determined in the minds of responsible officials, it was indicated.

About the only risk that a President could run in drastic action of the kind involved in controlling coal mines to get them operated, would be that of impeachment, a spokesman for the Administration said and President Harding it was said, is willing to take the risk if he considers it necessary to serve the public welfare.

Union Heads Favor Rejection

It became definitely known yesterday that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and other national officers of the union who have been negotiating with the Government since President Harding offered arbitration to settle the coal strike, are preparing to recommend to their associates in the union control, that the Government's plan be rejected.

The decision was made yesterday after Mr. Lewis and the union national officials had again consulted with officials concerned at the Department of Labor.

While no announcement has been forthcoming officially, the union men were definite yesterday in asserting that the responses they had received were unsatisfactory.

Bituminous Operators Oppose it

There were intimations yesterday that one group of Pennsylvania operators would flatly refuse to accept the proposition and general indications that other bituminous operators would attempt to insist upon modification. Anthracite employees have accepted the President's proposals practically without condition, though pointing out that their market position is very different from that of the bituminous operators and that they are without intermittency in operation and without great diversification and distribution of mines.

Ogle Puts Four Questions

Indianapolis, July 15—Bituminous coal operators have not yet formed their reply to President Harding's proposal, but, according to A. M. Ogle, president of the National Coal Association and chairman of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Committee, it should be accepted, if it leads to a "reduction in wages in the coal industry and a corresponding lower price for coal."

cause Dillsburg is (or at least was) insufficiently marked, the trapworkers may not arrest any driver who travels less than thirty miles an hour. The law says plainly that to limit the speed to fifteen miles an hour a borough or other municipality, must be marked at correct distances of an eighth of a mile with a sign the wording of which is contained in the act. If there are only two such signs, an eighth of a mile apart, the speed limit applies only between those signs. In Dillsburg up to Thursday night at least, there were only two signs on the Harrisburg-Gettysburg road—one at each end of the town. And while these signs said fifteen miles an hour, the law was not complied with because the posting was not continued at eighth-mile intervals. However, the authorities of Dillsburg may arrest for "reckless driving," the interpretation of which is purely a matter for Gross and his constables, so motor folks say it is discreet to be careful in Dillsburg as long as Gross and his trapworkers are after "easy money."

TAX GASOLINE PUMPS

At a recent meeting of the Town Council of Waynesboro, it was decided to levy a tax of $50 on each gasoline pump, placed along the curb on borough streets. Similar action was taken recently in York and the matter has been discussed on several occasions by members of the Gettysburg Council.

WITNESS TELLS OF GIRL'S MURDER

Mrs. Clara Phillips is Indicted as Slayer by Los Angeles Grand Jury.

Los Angeles, July 15—The Los Angeles County Grand Jury yesterday returned an indictment charging Mrs. Clara Phillips, under arrest at Tucson, Ariz., with the murder of Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows here Wednesday. Mrs. Meadows was slain by blows from a hammer wielded by Mrs. Phillips, according to the evidence of Mrs. Peggy Caffee, sole eye-witness of the crime, as she gave it before the grand jury.

Mrs. Caffee was found early yesterday by the police. She said she had maintained silence because of threats made by Mrs. Phillips. She had known Mrs. Phillips, she stated, for a year and a half. They went shopping Tuesday and during the trip Mrs. Phillips purchased the hammer. Mrs. Phillips, according to Mrs. Caffee, said a girl working in a local bank had been intimate with her husband and that she wanted to have a talk with the girl. She requested Mrs. Caffee to accompany her, and she agreed to do so.

Met Mrs. Meadows

Mrs. Caffee told of going down town Wednesday afternoon and meeting Mrs. Meadows and of the request of Mrs. Phillips that Mrs. Meadows drive them to a sister's house in her auto. The drive was halted on a hillside road and Mrs. Phillips requested Mrs. Meadows to get out of the car for a few moments, saying that she wished to talk to her alone.

Mrs. Meadows left the car and Mrs. Phillips followed, according to the story of Mrs. Caffee. On the road, a short distance from the car, Mrs. Phillips, according to Mrs. Caffee, accused Mrs. Meadows of intimacy with Mr. Phillips. Mrs. Meadows denied the charge. In a sudden fit of anger, Mrs. Caffee said, Mrs. Phillips began to rain blows upon Mrs. Meadows with the hammer.

Victim Screamed For Help

"She screamed for me to help her," said Mrs. Caffee, "but Mrs. Phillips menaced me with the hammer and threatened death if I interfered. Mrs. Meadows broke the grip which Mrs. Phillips had upon her and ran down the road. Mrs. Phillips pursued, caught her, brought her back and began beating her again with the hammer."

"After she fell I became sick and walked away down the road. I was soon overtaken by Mrs. Phillips, who made me get in the car with her and again threatened me with death if I ever said a word about the affair."

MANY IN POLICE COURTS

Small Cases Grow Out Of Strike Situation.

(By Associated Press)

Pittsburgh, July 15—A number of the cases called before the police magistrates today had to do with the strike of the railway shop men. Riley Gaston, of Baltimore, was held for court on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. A Baltimore and Ohio strike picket at the Glenwood shop asked him where he was working and he reached for his pistol.

Three men were held on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by a Baltimore and Ohio foreman, who said that they had come to his home and attacked him.

The Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio roads reported the conditions improved and that more men were being taken on in the shops. Union leaders said that they were "pleased" with the situation.

MAYOR VETOES PROPOSAL

Liberty Bell Will Not Be Taken to Chicago.

Philadelphia, July 15—The action of Mayor Moore in vetoing the proposal of council to send the Liberty Bell to Chicago for the Pageant of Progress, came as a surprise and evoked some criticism from members of the body.

Council tabled the mayor's message explaining his reasons for the veto, signifying its acquiescence in the action, and no attempt was made to pass the ordinance over the veto.

Both technical and patriotic reasons were presented by the mayor for vetoing the ordinance. Technically, he said, it conferred administrative powers upon council which it did not possess, and if for no other reason he would have felt called upon to veto the proposal.

THREE CORNERED RACE

With a little over six weeks to go, the Blue Ridge League race is slowly settling down into a three-cornered affair. Martinsburg and Frederick, last year's champions, are furnishing the thrills in the chase, with Waynesboro coming along in third place like a whirlwind.

The Villagers received an awful wallop when the Martinsburg Blue Sox handed them a double defeat this week. But the Villagers aren't through yet. If Waynesboro is beaten out of the pennant it will be because of their pitching staff. The hurlers are the only weak part about the club. There is a wealth of hitting power on the team, and any baseball nine that can beat an infield composed of Thompson at first, Lyston at second, Kanuas at short and Conti on third can be gambled on to furnish a fight. Waynesboro also has a great outfielder and hitter in Scheminant. It is a toss-up between this chap and Lefty Diehl as to which is the best outfielder in the league.

But the real fight seems to lie between last year's champions and the Mountaineers. If the Blue Sox can keep up the terrific pace they have been setting they should beat out Frederick for the bunting. The terrific hitting power of the Mountaineers is what is holding the club up in the race more than anything else. But it looks as if Frederick has the better all-round team.

FLANNERY ACQUITTED

James J. Flannery, charged with the murder of his young wife last February, was acquitted at Pittsburgh, last Saturday, after the jury had deliberated for 15 days. This is the longest jury deliberation in the history of that country. Flannery was charged with first degree murder. He set up a defense that he mistook his wife for a burglar, saying that he saw a shadowy form in a room and fired. Flannery, it will be recalled, abandoned a big automobile near New Oxford last summer, and on one occasion was arrested for shooting in Hanover.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY!

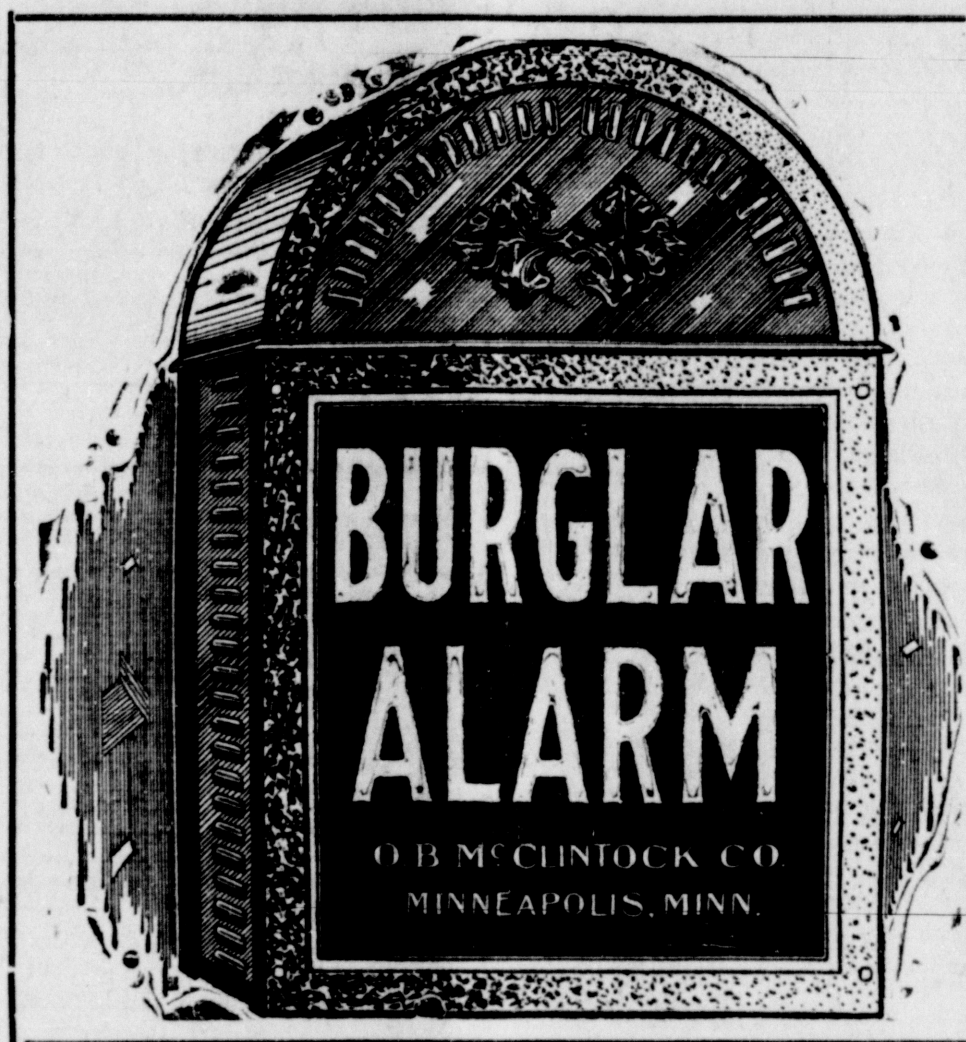

The One Thing Above All Others That Every Depositor Wants and Every Real Banker Seeks to Provide

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds, securities and valuables entrusted to their care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due the patron to justify his confidence. The Bank must actually protect, or it betrays.

The First National Bank and the Citizens Trust Co., of Gettysburg, have carried and continue to carry the best insurance protection it is possible to secure covering loss by burglary and daylight hold-up, whether the attack be against our own property or against the property and valuables of others entrusted to our care. We have felt equal concern for the safety of both, and have spent money freely to afford them both protection.

But our manager felt that we had not done our full duty until every possible precaution was taken—until our patrons had the very best protection it was possible to obtain.

That, obviously, included some form of burglar alarm system, such as is maintained by practically all the banks in the large cities, and is being adopted rapidly as well by progressive country banks, especially since the great increase in attempted burglaries during the past few years.

A careful study of the situation, and investigation of the methods employed by the banks in the cities and larger towns, has led us to install one of the most modern and efficient Electric Burglar Alarm Systems and the ONLY Thermo-Electric Protection in existence. It is acknowledged as being absolutely Burglar Proof, and is a fitting climax of positive security with our modern Steel Vaults. This system is manufactured by the O. B. McClintock Company of Minneapolis, which fully guarantees that the system cannot be defeated by the most expert burglar.

There are over 6000 of these systems in use in the United States and in no case has a burglar ever succeeded in his attempts to rob a bank so equipped. In fact, the attacks upon the banks with the system installed continue to grow less as time passes, though the number of systems rapidly increases, indicating that the yeggmen are beginning to pass by institutions which carry the familiar sign indicating that every modern device that genius can provide has been called into service to defeat their efforts.

Safety and Service--The Two Strong Pillars on Which Our Business Rests

INSURANCE COMPANIES INDORSE THE SYSTEM

One of the very best indorsements of our Burglar Alarm System is that given by the Old Line Burglary Insurance Companies. So firm is their belief in the protection thus afforded that they reduce by 50 per cent the premiums on the burglary insurance which we carry on the contents of our vaults, including the Safe Deposit Boxes of our customers.

These insurance people know better than any one else, doubtless, the value of the additional protection thus afforded.

$500 Reward

in cash will be paid by The O. B. McClintock Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota, for the capture and conviction of any person or persons attempting to burglarize these banks

YOU ARE ENTITLED TO THE VERY BEST

There is no reason why the people of this community should not have the best protection obtainable, and we are prepared to furnish it.

We have safe places to keep your Liberty Bonds and other valuables, as well as to do your general banking business. Everything entrusted to us is protected against every kind of attack it is possible for burglars to make.

FIRST WARD LOSES ANOTHER CONTEST

Second Ward Bunches Hits While First Warders Tally Errors.

The Ward League champions dropped their second contest of the summer season, Friday evening, when they crossed bats with the Second Ward sluggers on the Playground diamond. The score was 5-2. Second Ward batters connected with Woodward's offerings freely in the second inning, scoring 4 runs from 6 hits. Errors, both of omission and commission, were costly in crucial moments of the second frame to First Ward standing.

Myers led off with single and was followed in close succession by Ikeler, Moser, Timmins, Kendlehart, all of whom hit safely. Gilbert, up next, sent a hot grounder down the third base line, which L. Oyler straddled but let pass through. Gilbert went for two bases on it, bringing in Kendlehart and Timmins.

First Ward chalked up their two tallies in the third session, with two men down. Woodward came to bat and knocked the sphere for two bases scoring Sowers and Bream, both of whom had previously hit safely.

The score follows:

DOPE STICKS

Jupiter Pluvius almost won the game by sending showers in the closing frames.

The attendance picked up considerably and from the jingle in the hats, the collection picked up also.

L. Oyler looked like a croquet arch over Gilbert's fast grounder.

Kendlehart is getting back to his normal stride. He allowed but four hits.

It looked like a "no walk" game until the fifth when Roth got a free ticket.

Ikeler led Second Baseman Pheil a merry chase over the diamond until Base Umpire Mundorff called him out.

C. Bream led the batting list for First Ward with two hits, in three trips to bat.

Next game, Monday evening, July 17—High School and Second Ward.

the camp more than ten days in the year.

Many tourists have found that a pleasant vacation can be had by taking a camping outfit with them and thus escape the enormous hotel bills for himself and family, which would otherwise make such a trip prohibitive. By this method, many people have been able to make long journeys at comparatively small cost. Wealthy people, especially those with children, have found it great sport to spend several nights camping under the stars, while on a long tour, and for this purpose, they carry tents in their equipment and when a particularly delightful spot is found in the trip, avail themselves of the opportunity. The inviting camp sites offered to the tourists by the State of Pennsylvania have been largely patronized this summer and are becoming popular resorts.

EDUCATION NOT ONLY BENEFIT

Pol Of Graduates Shows They Appreciate Association With Students.

Education is not the greatest benefit to be derived from college, according to the class of 1922 of the Pennsylvania State College. It has been announced that a poll of 125 members of the graduating class on the question of the greatest good coming from the college training brought forth the answer from about one third of the students that "association with students and others" is to be given first place.

Forty-four of the men named this as the most valued product of their four years at college. Only five men said that an education was the greatest benefit to be secured, while five others said that a technical education was the chief advantage. Twenty-five students said that a college education was valuable because of the broader view of life that it gave, 12 said that they had not been taught to think seriously, 6 said that self confidence was the primary product of their training, and 5 said that worldly experience was the outstanding gain.

Some of the other answers were: meaning and worth of character, self-control, college atmosphere, how to work, fraternity and social benefits, training for life, extemporization, concentration, and perseverance. One man answered that the greatest benefit derived was a "diploma" and another said a "four years' loaf."

STATE REDUCES SALARIES

Harrisburg, Pa., July 14.—Reductions of salaries of thirty-seven attaches of the state treasury have been made by the State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder to keep departmental funds within the appropriation. The cuts range from $160 to $2,500 a year. It is estimated the cuts will save over $16,000 in eleven months. Persons receiving statutory salaries or less than $150 a month were not cut.

This is the first department of the state government to make reductions in salaries. The changes are effective July 1.

"They moved, these two, across the floor, their blanched faces straining ahead. With the sudden sting of heat finally across her palm, reddening it, Miss Wortle flung wide her arms and her head backward, and her voice tore out without restraint.

"God! God! God!" And she fell to trembling so that her knees gave way under her and she crouched on the floor with her face bared to the ceiling, rocking herself back and forth, beating her fists against her flat breasts.

"God! God! God!"

"Dee Dee darling, it ain't nothing! A little too much strain, that's all. 'Shh-h-h! Lemme bathe them. 'Shh-h-h, my darling. Oh, my God! darling! 'Shh-h-h!"

"Lemme go! Lemme go! He told me today it would come like this! Only he didn't say how soon. Not how soon. I'm done for, I tell you! I'm done! Kill me, Sadie; if you love me, kill me!"

He told me and I wouldn't believe it! Kill me, girl, and put me out of it! I can't breathe in the dark! I can't! I can't! I can't live in the dark with my eyes open! Kill me, girl, and put me out of it—kill me! Kill me!"

"Dee Dee, my darling, ain't I right here with you? Didn't you always say, darling, when it came you—you'd face it?"

"I'm done! Kill me! Kill me! Don't make me live in the dark with my eyes open—don't! There's a good girl, Sadie. Don't! Don't! Don't!"

From the room adjoining came a rattling at the barred door between.

"Cut it in there! This ain't no bar-room. Go tell your D. T.'s to a policeman."

They crouched closer and trembling.

"'Shh-h-h! Dee Dee darling, try to be easy and not raise the house—try!"

Miss Wortle lay back exhausted against Miss Barnett's engulging arms.

Along the road of Newton Heights spring and her firstling crept out tenderly. Even close up to the rim of the tiled highway itself, an occasional colony of wood violets dared to show their heads for the brief moment before they suffocated. The threat of rain still lay on the air, but the Sunday rank and file of motors threw back tops, lowered windshields and turned shining noses toward the greening fields.

In the red-leather tonneau, with her little face wind-blown and bared to the kiss of the air, Sadie Barnett turned to her companion and peered under the visor of his checked cap and up into his small inset eyes.

"Is—is that the house up on the hill there, Jerry?"

day he wouldn't operate. He told me, No, no, all the colors so pale—even the reds—so pale! Lavender and blue—I just couldn't tell. I couldn't. Oh, my God! Oh, my God!"

"'Shh-h-h, darling! Don't take on so! Wait till morning and we'll get new drops from him. 'Shh-h-h! Maybe it's only strain."

"I know, I'm in the dark for good, Sadie. Oh, my God! I'm in the dark! Lemme die! Lemme die!"

"'Shh-h-h—darling—That's it, rest quiet."

Suddenly Miss Wortle flung up one arm about Sadie Barnett's neck, pressing her head downward until their faces touched.

"Dee Dee darling, you—you hurt." "You won't never leave me, Sadie. You won't leave me alone in the dark, Sadie?"

"No, no, my darling; you know I won't, never, never."

"You'll keep me with you always, promise me that, Sadie. Promise me, little Sadie, you won't leave your aunt Dee Dee alone in the dark. My poor little girl, don't leave me alone in the dark. I can't see; Sadie, I can't see no more. Promise me, Sadie, promise me, promise me!"

From Sadie Barnett's heart, weakening her like the loss of blood, flowed her tears. She kissed the heart of Edith Wortle where it beat like a clock beneath the high-necked nightdress; she made of her bosom a pillow of mercy and drew the head up to its warmth.

"I—I promise, Dee Dee. Sure I promise. Always will I keep you with me, darling, always, always, so help me, always."

"Sure, I believe every one of us gets what's coming to us."

"She—"

"Here we are, Tootsie. See, Peachy, that's the house I bought her and her mother, and they was kicking at it before the plaster was dry."

"Oh! Oh!"

"That's a concrete front. Neat, ain't it? That's a mosaic-floor porch, too, I built on a year after her and her mother vanished."

"It's a beautiful house, Jerry."

"You're the kind of kid that knows how to appreciate a home when she gets it. But her with her she-devil of a mother, they no sooner got in than they began to side with each other against me—her and her old mother trying to learn me how to run my own shebang."

"Say, but ain't it pretty, Jerry, right up over the river, and country all around, and right over there in back the street cars for the city when you want them?"

"This is going to be your street car, Peachy, a six-cylinder one."

She colored like a wild rose.

"Oh, Jerry, I—I keep forgetting."

"By Gad! It's a good thing I'm going to give up my city rooms and come out here to watch my p's and q's. Gosh darn her neck! I told her to quit cowering up that side yard turf with her gosh darn little flower-beds! Gosh darn her neck! There never was a servant worth her hide."

"Jerry, why, they're beautiful! They just look beautiful, those pansies, and is that the little girl sitting up there on the porch steps? Is—is that Maisee?"

"They drew to a stop before the box-shaped, ornate house. On the topmost step of the square veranda the inert figure of a small girl."

"Aw, ain't she cute?"

Miss Barnett sprang lightly to the sidewalk, and beside her Mr. Jerome Beck flicked the dust of travel from the bay of his waistcoat, shaking his trousers' knees into place.

"Jerry, call her here, the little girl. You tell her who—who I am. Tell her gently, Jerry, and—how good I'm going to be to her and—aw, ain't I the silly, though, to feel so trembly?"

The child on the steps regarded their approach with unsmiling eyes, nor did she move except to draw aside her dark stuff skirts and close her knees until they touched.

"Hello there! Moping again, eh? Get up! Didn't I tell you not to let me clobber you around? Say howdy to this lady. She's coming out here to live. Come here and say howdy to her."

The child shrank to the newel-post, her little face overtaken with an agony of shyness.

"Cat got your tongue? Say howdy. Quit breathing through your mouth like a fish. Say howdy, that's a good girl."

"Don't force her, Jerry. She's bashful. Ain't you, dearie? Ain't you, Maisee?"

"Moping, you mean. If it was her month in the dirty Harlem flat she'd be spy enough. She knows what I mean when I say that, and she knows she better cut out this pouting. Quit breathing through your mouth or I'll stick a cork in it."

"Aw, Jerry, she can't

PATIENTS ARE RECOVERING

Mysterious Malady Attributed to Milk Supply.

Mechanicsburg, July 15.—No new cases of sickness have been reported to health authorities here in the mysterious epidemic which swept over the borough early this week, during the past twenty-four hours. In all, more than ninety victims are under the care of physicians.

Officials of the State Health Department conducted a house-to-house canvass of the town. The investigation was in charge of Dr. J. Moore Campbell, chief inspector of the department. The inspecting party is of the opinion that the cause of the outbreak is traceable to the town's milk supply although they did not think there is anything radically wrong with the milk.

All of the persons who were reported sick are now recovering and it is expected that the sickness will have disappeared by the end of the present week.

Dr. Campbell believes that the sickness through the milk supply is wholly beyond human control. Since milk is a highly perishable product it is one of the hardest of necessities to handle and it is not likely that the dealers who supply the product are able to control it to avoid any such epidemics of sickness, he says.

SEVEN YEARS FOR SWINDLER

Coblenz, July 15.—Private Lester Hetherington, of Bristol, Pennsylvania, was sentenced yesterday to seven years in a military prison by court-martial. Approximately 2,000,000 marks figure in Hetherington's operations, which extended as far as Munich, Bavaria.

Hetherington, posing as a motorcycle dealer and displaying forged official papers, collected large amounts in deposits from German dealers against orders for machines which were never delivered.

Sofia, July 15—Despairing of finding an American wife for King Boris, Premier Stamboulisky is understood to have asked David Lloyd George to suggest a suitable English mate for the lonely monarch. FIRST WARD LOSES ANOTHER CONTEST

Second Ward Bunches Hits While First Warders Tally Errors.

The Ward League champions dropped their second contest of the summer season, Friday evening, when they crossed bats with the Second Ward sluggers on the Playground diamond. The score was 5-2. Second Ward batters connected with Woodward's offerings freely in the second inning, scoring 4 runs from 6 hits. Errors, both of omission and commission, were costly in crucial moments of the second frame to First Ward standing.

Myers led off with single and was followed in close succession by Ikeler, Moser, Timmins, Kendlehart, all of whom hit safely. Gilbert, up next, sent a hot grounder down the third base line, which L. Oyler straddled but let pass through. Gilbert went for two bases on it, bringing in Kendlehart and Timmins.

First Ward chalked up their two tallies in the third session, with two men down. Woodward came to bat and knocked the sphere for two bases scoring Sowers and Bream, both of whom had previously hit safely.

The score follows:

DOPE STICKS

Jupiter Pluvius almost won the game by sending showers in the closing frames.

The attendance picked up considerably and from the jingle in the hats, the collection picked up also.

L. Oyler looked like a croquet arch over Gilbert's fast grounder.

Kendlehart is getting back to his normal stride. He allowed but four hits.

It looked like a "no walk" game until the fifth when Roth got a free ticket.

Ikeler led Second Baseman Pheil a merry chase over the diamond until Base Umpire Mundorff called him out.

C. Bream led the batting list for First Ward with two hits, in three trips to bat.

Next game, Monday evening, July 17—High School and Second Ward.

the camp more than ten days in the year.

Many tourists have found that a pleasant vacation can be had by taking a camping outfit with them and thus escape the enormous hotel bills for himself and family, which would otherwise make such a trip prohibitive. By this method, many people have been able to make long journeys at comparatively small cost. Wealthy people, especially those with children, have found it great sport to spend several nights camping under the stars, while on a long tour, and for this purpose, they carry tents in their equipment and when a particularly delightful spot is found in the trip, avail themselves of the opportunity. The inviting camp sites offered to the tourists by the State of Pennsylvania have been largely patronized this summer and are becoming popular resorts.

EDUCATION NOT ONLY BENEFIT

Poll Of Graduates Shows They Appreciate Association With Students.

Education is not the greatest benefit to be derived from college, according to the class of 1922 of the Pennsylvania State College. It has been announced that a poll of 125 members of the graduating class on the question of the greatest good coming from the college training brought forth the answer from about one third of the students that "association with students and others" is to be given first place.

Forty-four of the men named this as the most valued product of their four years at college. Only five men said that an education was the greatest benefit to be secured, while five others said that a technical education was the chief advantage. Twenty-five students said that a college education was valuable because of the broader view of life that it gave, 12 said that they had not been taught to think seriously, 6 said that self confidence was the primary product of their training, and 5 said that worldly experience was the outstanding gain.

Some of the other answers were: meaning and worth of character, self-control, college atmosphere, how to work, fraternity and social benefits, training for life, extemporization, concentration, and perseverance. One man answered that the greatest benefit derived was a "diploma" and another said a "four years' loaf."

STATE REDUCES SALARIES

Harrisburg, Pa., July 14.—Reductions of salaries of thirty-seven attaches of the state treasury have been made by the State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder to keep departmental funds within the appropriation. The cuts range from $160 to $2,500 a year. It is estimated the cuts will save over $16,000 in eleven months. Persons receiving statutory salaries or less than $150 a month were not cut.

This is the first department of the state government to make reductions in salaries. The changes are effective July 1.

A trial sermon was preached at Wolf's Church, last Sunday evening, by the Rev. Charles W. Baker, of Confluence, Somerset county. "They moved, these two, across the floor, their blanched faces straining ahead. With the sudden sting of heat finally across her palm, reddening it, Miss Wortie flung wide her arms and her head backward, and her voice tore out without restraint.

"God! God! God!" And she fell to trembling so that her knees gave way under her and she crouched on the floor with her face bared to the ceiling, rocking herself back and forth, beating her fists against her flat breasts.

"God! God! God!"
"Dee Dee darling, it ain't nothing! A little too much strain, that's all. 'Shh-h-h! Lemme bathe me. 'Shh-h-h, my darling. Oh, my God! darling! 'Shh-h-h!"
"Lemme go! Lemme go! He told me today it would come like this! Only he didn't say how soon. Not how soon. I'm done for, I tell you! I'm done! Kill me, Sadie; if you love me, kill me!"

He told me and I wouldn't believe it! Kill me, girl, and put me out of it! I can't breathe in the dark! I can't! I can't! I can't live in the dark with my eyes open! Kill me, girl, and put me out of it—kill me! Kill me!"

"Dee Dee, my darling, ain't I right here with you? Didn't you always say, darling, when it came you—you'd face it?"
"I'm done! Kill me! Kill me! Don't make me live in the dark with my eyes open—don't! There's a good girl, Sadie. Don't! Don't!"

From the room adjoining came a rattling at the barred door between.

"Cut it, in there! This ain't no bar-room. Go tell your D. T.'s to a policeman."

They crouched closer and trembling. "Shh-h-h! Dee Dee darling, try to be easy and not raise the house—try!" Miss Wortie lay back exhausted against Miss Barnett's engulfing arms.

"Dee Dee, Darling, It Ain't Nothing! A Little Too Much Strain, That's All."

Her passion ebbed suddenly and her words came scant, incoherent and full of breath.

"No use. No use. He told me to day he wouldn't operate. He told me. No, no, all the colors so pale—even the reds—so pale! Lavender and blue—I just couldn't tell. I couldn't. Oh, my God! Oh, my God!"

"Shh-h-h, darling! Don't take on so! Wait till morning and we'll get new drops from him. 'Shh-h-h! Maybe it's only strain."

"I know. I'm in the dark for good, Sadie. Oh, my God! I'm in the dark! Lemme die! Lemme die!"
"Shh-h-h—darling— That's it, rest quiet."

Suddenly Miss Wortie flung up one arm about Sadie Barnett's neck, pressing her head downward until their faces touched.

"Dee Dee darling, you—you hurt." "You won't never leave me, Sadie. You won't leave me alone in the dark, Sadie?"

"No, no, my darling; you know I won't, never, never."

"You'll keep me with you always, promise me that, Sadie. Promise me, little Sadie, you won't leave your aunt Dee Dee alone in the dark. My poor little girl, don't leave me alone in the dark. I can't see; Sadie, I can't see no more. Promise me, Sadie, promise me, promise me!"

From Sadie Barnett's heart, weakening her like the loss of blood, flowed her tears. She kissed the heart of Edith Wortie when it beat like a clock beneath the high-necked nightdress; she made of her bosom a pillow of mercy and drew the head up to its warmth.

"I—I promise, Dee Dee. Sure I promise. Always will I keep you with me, darling, always, always, so help me, always."

CHAPTER V.

Along the road of Newton Heights spring and her firstling crept out tenderly. Even close up to the rim of the tiled highway itself, an occasional colony of wood violets dared to show their heads for the brief moment before they suffocated. The threat of rain still lay on the air, but the Sunday rank and file of motors threw back tops, lowered windshields and turned shining noses toward the greening fields.

In the red-leather tonneau, with her little face wind-blown and bared to the kiss of the air, Sadie Barnett turned to her companion and peered under the visor of his checked cap and up into his small inset eyes.

"Is—is that the house up on the hill there, Jerry?"
"Not yet. It's right around the next bend."

"Gee! My—my hands are like ice, I—I'm that nervous."

"Lemme feel."

"No."

"That's a swell way to treat a fellow who's promised to marry you."

"You—you must excuse me today, Jerry. Honest, with a wink of sleep I—I'm so upset with poor Dee Dee, and on top of that so nervous about your little girl and the house and everything. And, Dee Dee—when I think of Dee Dee."

wasn't no hope."
"Aw, now, cut the sob stuff, Peachy. You can't help it. Poor old devil. Maybe she's just getting what's due to her."

"Jerry!"
"Sure, I believe every one of us gets what's coming to us."

"Here we are, Tootsie. See, Peachy, that's the house I bought her and her mother, and they was kicking at it before the plaster was dry."

"Oh! Oh!"
"That's a concrete front. Neat, ain't it? That's a mosaic-floor porch, too, I built on a year after her and her mother vamoosed."

"It's a beautiful house, Jerry."

"You're the kind of kid that knows how to appreciate a home when she gets it. But her with her she-devil of a mother, they no sooner got in than they began to side with each other against me—her and her old mother trying to learn me how to run my own shebang."

"Say, but ain't it pretty, Jerry, right up over the river, and country all around, and right over there in back the street cars for the city when you want them?"

"This is going to be your street car, Peachy, a six-cylinder one."

She colored like a wild rose.

"Oh, Jerry, I—I keep forgetting."

"By Gad! It's a good thing I'm going to give up my city rooms and come out here to watch my p's and q's. Gosh darn her neck! I told her to quit cluttering up that side yard turf with her gosh darn little flower-beds! Gosh darn her neck! There never was a servant worth her hide."

"Jerry, why, they're beautiful! They just look beautiful, those pansies, and is that the little girl sitting up there on the porch steps? Is—is that Maisie?"

They drew to a stop before the box-shaped, ornate house. On the topmost step of the square veranda the inert figure of a small girl.

"Aw, ain't she cute?"

Miss Barnett sprang lightly to the sidewalk, and beside her Mr. Jerome Beck flicked the dust of travel from the bay of his waistcoat, shaking his trousers' knees into place.

"Jerry, call her here, the little girl. You tell her who—who I am. Tell her gently, Jerry, and—how good I'm going to be to her and—aw, ain't I the silly, though, to feel so trembly?"

The child on the steps regarded their approach with unsinning eyes, nor did she move except to draw aside her dark stuff skirts and close her knees until they touched.

"Hello there! Moping again, eh? Get up! Didn't I tell you not to let me catch you out playing or helping Cloonan around? Say howdy to this lady. She's coming out howdy to live. Come here and say howdy to her."

The child shrank to the newel-post, her little face overtaken with an agony of shyness.

"Cat got your tongue? Say howdy. Quit breathing through your mouth like a fish. Say howdy, that's a good girl."

"Don't force her, Jerry. She's bashful. Ain't you, dearie? Ain't you, Maisie?"

"Moping, you mean. If it was her month in the dirty Harlem flat she'd be spry enough. She knows what I mean when I say that, and she knows she better cut out this pouting. Quit breathing through your mouth or I'll stick a cork in it."

"Aw, Jerry, she can't help that!"

"Cat got your tongue? Where's Cloonan?"

"Aw, Jerry—you—you scared her! Come here, darling; come here to me, Maisie; come, dearie."

But the child slid past the extended arms, down the wooden steps, and around a corner of the house, her arm held up across her eyes.

"Aw, Jerry, honest, you can be awful mean!"

CHARGES HUGE DYE FRAUD IN SENATE

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire Brands du Ponts as Arch Conspirators.

Washington, D. C., July 15—Charges of a somewhat sensational character against the Chemical Foundation, Inc., the E. I. duPont de Nemours Company and the Textile Alliance were made yesterday in the Senate by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, in the course of a prepared address in opposition to the dye embargo provision of the administration tariff bill. Senator Moses said these organizations were three of the actors in the "gigantic fraud" he was opposing, and added:

"These three are significantly interlocked in their related personnel and in their activities; and it is they whose subsidiaries, officers, stockholders, lobbyists, paid propagandists and faked and kept organizations have been the most aggressive, avaricious and insolent of all the profiteering crew who pertinaciously push this legislation."

Moses declared that whatever the outcome of the Government's proceedings against the Chemical Foundation, he always would believe it was "conceived in conspiracy and fostered by falsehood." He charged that the "conspiracy" was formed by Francis P. Garvan, its president, "his associates in the office of Alien Property Custodian and certain of the dye manufacturers of the country."

Recalls Order Signed by Polk
Calling attention that the foundation was organized in the winter of 1919, Moses said that on February 26 of that year Acting Secretary Polk signed an executive order "which had been carefully prepared for his signature" by the Foundation authorizing licensing of seized enemy patents and trademarks by the organization.

In this connection he presented a memorandum of a conversation which he said he had had with an unnamed Federal official, setting forth that Polk, who was acting in the absence in Europe of Secretary Lansing and President Wilson, had explained that he had signed the order upon representations that the action to be taken was with the full approval of the Federal Trade Commission, which was licensing the patents under authority of the trading with the enemy act.

The memorandum set forth also that Polk "seemed very much disturbed," and held several conferences with officials of the Trade Commission and had "intimated very strongly that he had been made the victim of false representations to induce his signature to the executive order."

counties: Philadelphia, Allegheny, Berks, Blair, Chester, Crawford, Indiana, Lehigh, Northampton, York and Washington. Crawford won the banner for the highest per capita paid to State, $5 per society. Indiana won the banner for greatest increase in number of societies. For coming the greatest distance with greatest number of delegates, Allegheny won the banner. Grace United Evangelical Church Society, of Reading won first honors for the most attractive posters announcing the Sunday evening meetings.

A treat for the delegates was the junior pageant in which 100 children participated. They scored a big hit in their colorful costumes depicting various Biblical events. The pageant was entitled "Stories From the Book." A large Bible was erected on the stage and "from the book" the various characters stepped out and enacted Bible scenes. The costumes were appropriate to Bible times, and the entire arrangement was unique. The first stories were from the "Old Testament." "Abraham and the Three Visitors," "Joseph and His Brethren" and "Esther." Next followed New Testament parables—"The Great Supper," "The Good Samaritan" and "Then 10 Virgins." The pageant closed with a tableau by the children. A boy stood on one side of the Bible with an American flag while a girl stood on the other side with a church flag. A salute to the flags by 100 children was followed by an outburst of applause from the audience.

Walter M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, gave the children an object lesson entitled "The Gospel in a Nutshell," at their convention session in Olivet Presbyterian Church.

Brings Message From Overseas
An inspiring meeting was the early dawn service held at the Pagoda. Endeavorers numbering 500 hiked up the boulevard, led by Wilmer G. Seifert. Homer Rodeheaver, of Billy Sunday fame, led the singing.

James Kelly, president of the Christian Endeavor Union, of Great Britain and Ireland, brought to the Pennsylvania Endeavorers an impressive message from overseas. "I bring to you warm fraternal greetings from your comrades in Great Britain and Ireland," said Mr. Kelly. "Our thoughts and prayers are with you. We rejoice in your great victory in the interest of temperance, and we are with you in your effort to bring about a warless world by 1923."

A plea that the Endeavorers take a more active part in politics was made by Dr. Zed H. Copp, of Philadelphia. The peril of America is not in its foreign groups, but in its silent, unconcerned majorities, said Dr. Copp. "The better people of America today hold the balance of power. But they are tricked by the politicians into not asserting themselves.

"The term, 'we, the people,' has been changed to we, the politicians. America need have no fear of the liquor traffic or any other evil if they wake up. Get your societies into politics. The old parties want nothing more than that you keep out. Don't be lulled into a state of coma by those who tell you that politics is odious and not for the better people.

"As soon as the Christian Endeavorers of this State enter into the political life of the Commonwealth, that soon will the moral welfare as well as the political life grow better. It can be done. This year, in the Forty-second ward in Philadelphia, the liquor traffic of the entire nation united to defeat George Darrah. The independents, the true Americans, united, and George Darrah was sent back to Congress with a larger vote than ever before.

"Select men, make them commit themselves. And have no fear of anything because one man in the right and with God is a majority.

"We tried some time ago to make this world safe for democracy. Let's now make the world safe for society.

"Investigate your jails and penitentiaries. Visit your schools and almshouses. Inquire into conditions and the officials will then wake up and know that you are living."

DOLLAR COINAGE RESUMED

Mint Here Will Turn Out 50,000 a Day For The Next Three Months.

Work has been resumed by the Philadelphia mint on the coinage of approximately 45,000,000 ounces of silver on hand, following the recent period in which the mint was closed during the taking of inventory.

Orders have been received to speed up the coinage of silver dollars to replace part of $300,000,000 sold during the world war as bullion to England. As fast as the coins are manufactured they will be shipped to Washington for deposit in the Treasury vaults and silver dollar certificates will be issued against them. Under the new order 50,000 silver dollars will be coined daily.

When the fiscal year closed on June 30 the mint here had coined $62,973,473 worth of silver. American silver is being bought now for $1 per ounce.

Out of a total operation of 81,093,075 ounces of silver, the local mint had a wastage of only 1689 ounces, this being but 2 per cent. of the wastage permissible under the law. The report from the recent inventory indicates that the Philadelphia mint is operated in a more efficient manner than any other mint.

Good Looks.

"What a treat good-looking people are! How they ought to be encouraged when the generality is so commonplace—good looks, when probed to their essence, are as often as not a good spirit looking out through ordinary eyes, nose and hair."—"The Veneerings," by Sir Harry Johnston.
